ROAD SEPT. 15 TO NOV. 1

Longest Jump Will Be From Los Angeles to Salt Lake City, 862 Miles

EVERLY, Sept. 5.—The route along which President Taft will thread his way for 13,000 miles, in a tour of the country, was definitely mapped today. The line runs through 24 states, while 100 cities are red dots showing pauses for speeches on reciprocity, arbitration, conservation and Alaska.

The president's trip will start from Los Angeles on September 15 and finish at Washington on November 1, in time to hear the verdict from some of the cases in the election six days later. The president heads straight for Oregon, pausing only a day or two in New York and Pennsylvania. From there the route leads into Illinois, then through Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Montana, South Dakota, North Dakota, Wisconsin and finally to Chicago, Pittsburg and Washington.

The longest jump on the trip is 862 miles from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City. The president will seldom go more than 20 or 30 miles without stopping to say a word either at some hall or the rear platform of his car. It is estimated that several million people will hear the president's voice at least catch a glimpse of him. The itinerary follows:

The trolley and telephone wires were blown down and formed a network above the street, on which the roof of a house caught after it had been torn from a building. Windows were broken in by the score and the streets were littered with glass.

IS OPPOSED TO RE-ELECTING TAFT

Senator Cummins Issues Statement Setting Forth His Reasons

ment Setting Forth His Reasons

NOT PROGRESSIVE ENOUGH

Thinks President Should Be Succeeded by Man of Different Caliber

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Senator Cummins, for his opposition to the re-election of President Taft, has been quoted in the following words:

"My general conclusion is, however, that in every struggle which has taken place since Mr. Taft became president, on all things, his allies and supporters have been the senators and members of the house who, however true they may be, are known from one end of the country to the other as the advocates of staid, traditional, and conservative progress."

"If the voters of the Republican party believe that the old leadership should be perpetuated they can find no better names than Mr. Taft. I do not believe it ought to be continued and therefore, without any personal disparagement of the president, I am hoping that a progressive Republican will be nominated and elected next year."

"His reason for this conclusion follows: 'It is understood that my opposition to the re-election of Taft is based solely on his attitude toward public questions and my conviction that the convention ought to nominate a candidate for president who will be strong in the election.'

"With these preliminary and explanatory suggestions, I present my bill of particulars."

"It will be conceded, I suppose, that President Taft's alignment must be defined briefly."

Basic of Judgment.
"By his position on the Payne-Aldrich tariff law."

"By his position on the bill for the further regulation of interstate commerce, brought forward about the first of the year 1910."

"By his position on the change made in the postal savings law, just as it was being passed in the senate."

"By his position on the proposed income tax law, which was sought to be incorporated into the Payne-Aldrich tariff act."

"By his attitude toward the control and disposition of our public domain."

"By his position on the Canadian tariff bill passed at the extra session just closed."

"By his work for the peace treaties."

"By his values of the woolen schedule, the free list and the resolution admitting New Mexico and Arizona as states."

"I shall content myself in the main with merely recalling to the minds of the people the things in each of these."

Lineup on Big Issues.
"The Payne-Aldrich tariff law."

"Mr. Taft's associates in the making of this law which he declared to be the best ever passed on the subject were Mr. Aldrich and his followers in the senate, Mr. Payne, Mr. Dingle, Mr. Cannon and their followers in the house. It seems to me I am justified."

BEATTIE CASE

The introduction of witnesses to discredit testimony of the accused.
The attack, it was evident, was conducted by the prosecution on the theory that if one or two important points in the story of the prisoner could be discredited, the case would be established. The commonwealth introduced several witnesses, including members of Paul Beattie's family, to prove that the two cousins, Henry and Paul, were together on Thursday night, as well as on Saturday night, preceding the murder. This was denied by the prisoner. It was on Thursday night that Paul declared his cousin first asked him to buy a shotgun.

meet Henry at a certain street corner, but witnesses who said they saw the pair on that corner, as well as in a backroom, later corroborated the story of Paul Beattie as to his movements on the Thursday night in question.
Witnesses were also introduced for the purpose of discrediting the testimony of E. H. Nebitt, who declared he saw Paul with a shotgun on the bridge where Nebitt worked, a day after Paul Beattie's story alleges that Henry transferred the fatal gun to Paul.
Two men said they were on the bridge while Nebitt was there, and they declared that Paul had no shotgun. The commonwealth attempted to cast some doubt too on the evidence of Charles H. Kestelberg, who said it was he who was motoring on Midlothian turnpike on the night of the murder and who stopped his machine while a woman stood on the running board.
Roland Lassiter, one of the group of boys who saw the car with the woman on the running board and a man crouched before the hood, declared he knew Kestelberg as well as the make of his car and that neither the man nor car was the one he saw.
Though various phases of the case were entered into, the prosecution in effect really concentrated its attention on corroborating the story of Paul Beattie, not only as to the purchase of the gun but as to his presence on the veranda of the prisoner's home on the night following the murder when Paul claims Henry confessed to him that he committed the crime.
Witnesses were brought forward to controvert the story of the accused that while Paul was on the veranda that night they were alone and that too many people were present for any private conversations.
The principal witness in refuting was Henry B. Duren, a brother of the dead woman, who testified that Paul and Henry not only were alone on one portion of the veranda, but later he observed them alone within the house.

commerce and reported back to the senate precisely as the attorney general wrote it and as President Taft apparently believed it ought to be created.
"If this bill had passed as insisted on by the president the work of nearly a quarter of a century would have been swept away and we would have taken a long step backward in the regulation of our railways."
The committee bill was put through the committee under the coercion of Mr. Aldrich and with his declaration that not a letter or a line should be changed in it. It came to the senate and was opened up for discussion. Many parts of it were so bad that they found no defenders, and such effort as was made to defend the administration bill was led by Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Elkins.
"It was reconstructed on the floor of the senate by the progressives, against the violent opposition of the reactionaries who were acting for the president. I believe that people generally will agree with me that with respect to this measure, Mr. Taft did not take the progressive view of the subject."
His Stand on Postal Savings.
"Before the present administration came in, a postal savings bill had been practically agreed on in the senate and the light which the progressives had made was to insure the deposit of the money put into the postoffice in the banks of the local communities. We had won out but just as we were on the point of passing the bill, President Taft had sufficient influence to rewrite that part of the bill and everybody recognizes that the law as it was finally adopted in that respect was a victory for the great city banks and a defeat for the small country banks. Again the president was found in the company of the reactionaries and not with the progressives."

"The progressives were exceedingly anxious to attach an income tax law to the Payne-Aldrich tariff act. We had good reason to believe that the president was with us in this effort, but at the moment when it seemed likely to succeed, the president, under the leadership of Mr. Aldrich and his close associates, brought forward the so-called corporation tax law and defeated the proposal to levy a tax on the great incomes of the country."
"He did this through the instrumentality of the most pronounced reactionaries of congress. I think it must be conceded that whatever else may be said of his action he did not take the progressive view."
"We were encouraged by the suggestion that we would be able to obtain an amendment to the constitution and we could then have an income tax law of unquestioned validity but the constitution has not yet been amended to remove the doubt and it is exceedingly doubtful whether it ever will be."
Fisher Appointment Approved.
"All that I care to say is that he seems to be out of harmony with those recognized before his advent into office as the best exponents of the conservation policy and so far as I know, his appointment of Mr. Fisher as secretary of the interior was about the first act of his administration which commanded the approval of the progressives throughout the country."
"With respect to the Canadian reciprocity tariff bill, there is of course, the widest difference of opinion. It is a false pretense from beginning to end. It gives free pulp and free paper to publishers using print paper and it gives free farm products but it will not reduce the cost of living and it will not, in my judgment, widen or enlarge our markets for manufacturers in Canada."
"Its evil effects have been greatly exaggerated and its beneficial effects are almost wholly imaginary."
"The newspapers have their free pulp and free paper and I can easily understand why the measure appears to them as progressive legislation but to those of us who have been laboring for a systematic and comprehensive reduction of duties so that they will, in all the schedules, represent the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, the Canadian bill is the most unfortunate act of legislation passed within the period of the present administration for it has destroyed the chance of a fair revision of the tariff along Republican lines for years to come."
"It is perfectly apparent that we must now either suffer the injustice of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law in-

FAMOUS FLAGSHIP WILL SURRENDER ITS HONORS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Probably within a year the battleship Connecticut, America's most famous flagship, will surrender the banner of Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, to the dreadnought Wyoming, now nearing completion, which has been selected for the signal distinction of being flagship of the navy's real force. The Connecticut was the flagship of the fleet of the famous cruise around the world.
From her deck, first Rear Admiral Evans and later Rear Admiral Sperry directed the course of the battleships in the unprecedented voyage.
Because of this honor much sentiment surrounds the Connecticut and it is with reluctance that the naval officials have decided to displace her as the flagship of the battleship fleet. As the Wyoming will have a displacement of 26,000 tons, or 10,000 tons greater than that of the Connecticut, the secretary of the navy has concluded that the latter will be so far outclassed that she must give way to her mightier sister. While the Delaware, North Carolina, North Dakota, Utah and Florida all are larger than the Connecticut, the difference is not sufficient to cause a change in the flagship. The Wyoming and its twin, the Arkansas, will be the greatest vessels afloat.
According to the present schedule the Wyoming will be finished July 2, 1912, and the Arkansas April 10 of that year. They will be commissioned and ready for active service a few months later.

LAMAR MAN HURT AT VICTOR HORSE RACES

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.
VICTOR, Colo., Sept. 5.—An accident marred the Labor day celebration here today, when W. D. Lashman of Lamar was knocked down by a horse and severely injured. He was removed to a hospital, where his condition was pronounced improved tonight.
Lashman, who is an elderly man, had several horses entered in the relay races. One of these, ridden by a young woman, won in an event, and after the horse had passed the tape, Lashman rushed out to congratulate the rider. He stepped directly in front of the horse and was knocked down. He was bruised about the head and shoulders.

definitely on the basis of a Democratic bill for revenue only.

"It is hard for me to think of the Canadian bill as progressive, believing as I do, that its passage was the result of an understanding between the president and those eminent reactionaries, Penrose and Lodge, that they would see it through the senate if all other tariff bills reducing duties should be vetoed."

Arbitration Matters.

"With regard to peace treaties, I am in hearty sympathy with the president in an endeavor to broaden the field of arbitration but they can hardly be instanced as a great advance in the move for peace when they are construed as the president himself construes them in his public speeches, and as they must necessarily be construed if the senate amends them as it proposed for they are practically the same as the peace treaties we already have with Great Britain."

"With regard to the woolen bill and the free list bill, I have only to say that I haven't heard of any progressive rejoicing over the veto which killed them. They were proposed with the greatest care and in the full light of abundant information and both amply justified by the standard of protection."

"I predict that these bills gave the president the only chance he will ever have to sign acts of congress reducing the iniquitous duties of the Payne-Aldrich law but preserving the system of protection. In waiting for his tariff report he lost an opportunity which Democrats will not give him again."

"With respect to the veto of the resolution admitting New Mexico and Arizona as states, I have this to say. Some of the progressives were opposed to providing for both constitutions."

"They were not all in favor of the form of the initiative, referendum and recall as are found in the Arizona constitution."

"I do not approve of the recall of judges. All these things become material in the presence of one progressive proposition, viz: That congress had no right to prescribe constitutions for these incoming states."

HOSPITAL SHORT $100,000

DENVER, Sept. 5.—Information charging misappropriation of funds of the National Jewish hospital, amounting to $100,000 will shortly be filed by District Attorney Willis Elliot, the latter stated tonight. It is the first official suggestion as to the amount of the shortage of the funds of the institution and the statement followed the filing of two informations charging forgery against Bruno Grosser, assistant secretary of the hospital.
The charges were based on two checks—one for $500 and the other for $150—issued in the usual way by the officers of the hospital association and sent here, payable to a local stationery house. It is charged that the checks were not used for the payment of the bills.
Mr. Grosser's bond was fixed at $10,000 and was promptly furnished, a number of friends coming to his rescue. Court officials announced that this action was taken against Grosser to prevent his being released on habeas corpus proceedings.

WOMAN ONCE NOTED IN STATE DIES IN SQUALOR

DENVER, Sept. 5.—The body of Mrs. Helen F. Dixon, once one of the most prominent women of Colorado, was found tonight in her squalid home at 2450 East Twenty-third avenue. She had been dead eight hours. Mrs. Dixon was graduated from the New York Academy of Music and was said to be the daughter of well-to-do eastern parents. She was an accomplished elocutionist, and employed this talent in the Populist cause when that movement spread over Colorado, with the result that she soon became widely known.
During Governor Walte's administration she was credited with having a marked influence in state affairs. Following the downfall of the Populist movement, Mrs. Dixon became addicted to alcohol and morphine, and frequently figured in the police court. During the last few years she had been living in poverty.

CANON CITY, Sept. 5.—The Arkansas river clarification case, which is regarded as of great importance, was called today before Judge Wilkins, Pueblo and Canon City, and District No. 2, and their waterworks boards are seeking an injunction against the Twin Lakes Power company, which they charge is polluting the Arkansas river with quantities of mud and mineral water coming from the company's placer on Cache creek, a tributary of the river.

INCINERATED IN MID-AIR

HUELVA, Spain, Sept. 5.—A French aviator, M. Le Jager, while flying here yesterday, fell 250 feet and was killed. The motor exploded, setting fire to the aeroplane. The aviator was incinerated. A crowd of admirers who had been watching the flight of the aviator was thrilled with horror when a flash of flame suddenly enveloped the machine and a sharp report was carried down to earth.

The aeroplane fell like a plummet, a trail of fire extending like the tail of a comet behind it. When the spectators rushed to the spot where the ill-fated flyer lay in the smoldering wreckage of his machine, they found him already dead. It is believed that he was burned to death before striking the ground.

How'd You Like to Be the Supt. of Delivery?

Will you kindly go out to the street and ask for the fellow who is in Colorado Springs upon my return home? Please forward it to me if you can find it. I left my forwarding address with the postman.

John Thomas, superintendent of delivery at the postoffice, grinned a mischievous grin as he gently tossed aside the communication from an erstwhile tourist.

When you beat it? Can you BEAT it? he asked, and that from a man who lives in the United States of America where public schools and kindergarten are as free as the air. Will the postmaster please get on a bicycle and ride out to such a place as a house, ask for a fellow, bring it back, wrap it up and send it to me, what's the use? But CAN you beat it?

And these are busy days at the postoffice. Seven men are kept constantly at work forwarding and readdressing mail which follows the summer's best of visitors to Colorado Springs. The superintendent of delivery has about all he can do without hunting up forgotten articles and running the many foolish errands that unthinking people seem to expect part of the day's work for the man who sorts the thousands of letters, packages and postcards which arrive in Colorado Springs every day are quickly and accurately delivered.

You'd be surprised at the different things people write for medical advice, addresses and scores of things which are out of our province," said Mr. Thomas.

SOCIAL SESSION FRIDAY

Colorado Springs lodge No. 200, B. P. O. E., will give a free musical social session at the home next Friday night, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. All Elks, whether members of the local or sister lodges, are urged to attend. The standing fund will give several selections, and many other entertainment features will be provided.

SPEND VACATION IN DENVER

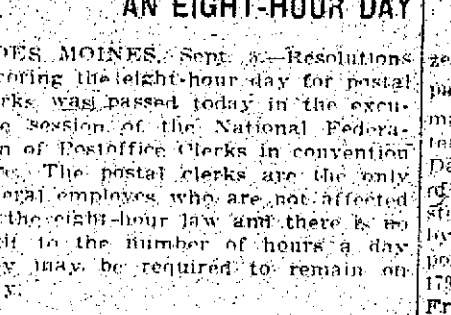

S. J. Bush, chief clerk of the Acacia hotel, will leave today with Mrs. Bush for Denver. They will be gone for a week and expect to visit Cheyenne and Estes park during Mr. Bush's vacation. His days of rest will be shortened because of the fact that A. P. Brinkworth, cashier of the Acacia, has accepted a position with the new Vale hotel which opens in Denver, September 15, and which necessitates the return of the chief clerk on that date.

MAY DISCONTINUE BAND CONCERTS IN THIS CITY

It is possible that no more concerts will be given by the Midland band in Colorado Springs this season, owing to lack of funds. The band will play at Manitou Soda Springs tonight and at Stratton park tomorrow night, also giving two concerts at Stratton park next Sunday.

POSTAL CLERKS WANT AN EIGHT-HOUR DAY

DES MOINES, Sept. 5.—Resolutions favoring the eight-hour day for postal clerks was passed today in the executive session of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks in convention here. DEGREES of SUMMERTIME EFFICIENCY

For those whose normal energy evaporates in a chronic sweat, there are just two remedies—a natural breeze and a General Electric Fan.

The natural breeze is always uncertain; the General Electric Fan is absolutely unfailing. Better still, the General Electric Fan gives a "portable breeze" you can train it on the desired place. Or you can use the Oscillating Type; it turns from side to side and distributes a cooling breeze all over the room.

Operating cost is too trivial for serious consideration—less than one cent an hour.

A commonsense regard for your efficiency and comfort demands the use of a G. E. Fan NOW.

We have a complete line of General Electric Fans displayed in our show room, or we will gladly have a representative call on you.

AIRSHIP SWOOPS DOWN ON U. S. SENATOR LORIMER

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—United States Senator William Lorimer of Illinois had a narrow escape from death yesterday when an aeroplane, driven by August Kuzick, knocked off his hat at High Lake, near West Chicago. The senator was ready to make a speech to a crowd when Kuzick started to fly in his biplane. The aviator lost control of his machine, which took a dangerous tilt to one side and swooped down over the crowd. Everything got out of the way except Senator Lorimer's hat. The senatorial headgear was struck by the tip of a plane and sent whirling out over the crowd. Then the machine hit a tree and fell to the ground. No one was injured, except Kuzick, who was only slightly hurt.

ARRESTED WITH DEADLY BOMB

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The police today arrested a young Italian with a bomb under his coat ready to explode, and believe, through him, they will trace the perpetrators of the numerous bomb outrages that have baffled them. The prisoner, Giuseppe Castella, carried a bomb like a cantaloupe with an 8-inch fuse, attached and the police believe he was about to use it.

COLONIZING EXPEDITION OF NEGROES TO LIBERIA

DENNISON, Tex., Sept. 5.—Because he believes that under present conditions it is impossible for the negro to prosper in southern Oklahoma, Dokey Costner, a negro farmer, has announced that he will head a band of 50 negroes in a colonizing expedition to Liberia.

KEENE SLOWLY IMPROVING

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The surgeon attending James R. Keene, who on Sunday underwent an operation for stomach trouble, reports that the condition of the financier this evening is favorable. There have been no complications. Mr. Keene's family was not informed that an operation was contemplated until it had been accomplished.

WOMAN'S ARM TORN OFF IN WASHING MACHINE

BENNINGTON, Kan., Sept. 5.—Mrs. Charles Simpson's arm was torn off while she was operating a washing machine run by a gasoline motor at her home today. The belt broke, catching Mrs. Simpson's arm and severing it at the elbow. Unaided she ran to a doctor's office three blocks away. She is 10 years old.

season than ever before. Literally hundreds of out-of-town motor cars were registered here, and in the aggregate they brought thousands of visitors. Next year the number will be still larger, and it is quite likely that before many seasons the patronage of automobile tourists will be quite as important as that of the tourists who come by railroad.

All of which leads to this conclusion: we must improve our roads; we must build new roads; we must make the scenic attractions of the Pikes Peak region, which are unknown even to many who have lived here for years so easily accessible by motor car that our visitors can tour the entire region without difficulty and spend not merely days, but weeks, enjoying the wonders provided by Nature.

The Automobile Club has already accomplished a work of extraordinary value by erecting signs, securing road improvements, etc. But its work is purely voluntary; its resources are extremely limited, being confined to the dues paid by its members. It cannot undertake to build new roads nor to attempt extensive improvements on its own account. It can only use its influence in the right direction, and in doing this it has made itself an invaluable force for the promotion of the public welfare along the lines of its activity. It richly deserves the unbounded support, both moral and financial, of the community, for in the long run its activities will promote the interests of the public in the best and broadest sense. With proper encouragement it will become the center of road-building activity in this region with results which in a very few years will abundantly justify any reasonable expenditure of money.

FROM OTHER PENS
THAW
From the Utica Observer.
Harry Thaw has again denied that he is insane. He is not very much mistaken, this is not the first time that he has made that assertion. In fact, he seems to be possessed by the idea that he is a fit person to be allowed at large. In that opinion he is in a minority of one.

POLOGIES NOT INVOLVED
From the New York Evening Post.
Mr. Taft's arguments in support of his contention that neither the Monroe Doctrine nor our established policy with regard to immigration can be made a subject for arbitration are convincing. The Monroe policy has been specifically mentioned by Sir Edward Grey as one of the questions that would not fall within the terms of the arbitration treaty. The regulation of immigration is recognized by international law as being everywhere a domestic problem subject to no outside restriction.
But Mr. Taft might have gone farther and emphasized the point that it is not "policies" that come up for arbitration, but specific cases. The joint high commission will probably never be called upon to decide whether the Monroe Doctrine is a just doctrine or whether our immigration laws are just laws. At most it may be called upon to pass judgment on a specific matter that may involve the Monroe Doctrine or our immigration policy. But as far as America's representatives on the high commission are concerned, the mere fact that either of these policies is involved would mean that the case under consideration is not justiciable. The only danger we face is that our representatives on the high commission may fall into error and decide that a submitted case does not involve questions of fundamental policy, when in point of fact it does. It is a risk that will not disturb the sleep of many reasonable men.

THE BRITISH LION GROWS.
From the Baltimore Sun.
England earnestly desires peace. She is more than willing to negotiate arbitration treaties, to enforce the powers of the Hague tribunal, accept the convention of the naval congress, join in the establishment of an international prize court, and do all she can to bring about the time when war shall be no more. But rulers of other nations who infer from this that she can be imposed upon will do well to revise their opinions. The speech of Chancellor Lloyd George at the Mansion House last Friday night is regarded as a warning to Germany. And there is no question that he voiced the views of the cabinet and of the English people. At the very time President Taft, at Manassas, was uttering invitations over the negotiations of arbitration treaties with Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and the Netherlands, as well as, tentatively, with Japan, Chancellor Lloyd George, the mouthpiece of the other grand division of the English-speaking race, was in London declaring that "if the situation were forced upon us wherein peace could only be preserved by the surrender of the great and beneficent position of Great Britain as a power at the price would be humiliation intolerable for a great country like ours."

POWER OF THE OLD HYMNS
From the Kansas City Star.
"What power these old hymns had!" The modern student who analyzes things and picks them to pieces and sees what they are made of would say probably that they had dramatic construction, or something of the sort. But at the camp meetings about this time of the year, a long time ago, you knew only that somehow they moved the people. Was it the hymns, was it the religious spirit peculiar to the time, was it the environment of those days, that made saints and sinners, old and young, lift up their voices mightily at the camp meeting and the country school house?
"Hail the Fort for I am Coming." Remember it? It was sung mostly at Sunday school in the country school house. So was "Whosoever Will." A joyous hymn of the immortal P. P. Bliss. "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" was one by Fanny Crosby that time has served only to mellow, like old wine. "Ring the Bells of Heaven" and "Revive Us Again" were sung with such spirit that you could almost hear the bells ringing in the air, could see the angels rejoicing.
Only an armor bearer—who can measure the power set in motion when P. P. Bliss gave the world the simple philosophy in that song?

Only an armor bearer, proudly I stand,
Waiting to follow at the king's command,
Marching if "Onward" shall the order be,
Standing by my captain, serving faithfully.
And the chorus—
Hear ye the battle cry? "Forward" the call.
See! See the faltering ones! Backward they fall.
Surely the captain will depend on me,
Though but an armor bearer I may be.

How many of the men who have done things in country and cities were spurred by that old song? And there was "Bona Fide," "Hiking in the Snow," "When the Mist Has Risen in the Spring," "Work for the Night is Coming," "O'er the Stormy Banks," "Wandering Home," "Just as I Am," "Lead, Kindly Light," "The Shanty and Nine," "Faith Looks Up to Thee," "The Sweet Story of Old," "Almost Persuaded," "Happy Day," and a host of others—they are still sung and they carry with them pictures of a time and place away back in the score of years. Those old hymns of the country school house and the open-air meeting have a corner all their own in the mental house a corner nothing else could adorn. Old they are, but not worn; always can they be revived in their first sweetness.

THE PUBLIC AND THE PUBLIC HEALTH
From the Journal of the American Medical Association.
The ready response of the public to appeals for better health conditions is a most surprising and gratifying result of the rapidly altering state of public opinion on health matters. The people are ready for any reforms. Recent examples of this fact will readily occur to those who have been watching public health progress. One of these is the recent remarkable crystallization of public opinion on the common drinking-cup; another is the equally rapid progress of the campaign against insect carriers of disease and especially of flies. These pests have been causing annoyance and disgust to all cleanly minded people, as well as distributing diseases, for centuries.
If anyone had predicted 10 years ago that great American newspapers and civic organizations would inaugurate a definite campaign against flies, he would have been regarded as hopelessly visionary. Yet the American Civic Association has established a "Fly-Killing Committee," has printed an article from the "Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science," has distributed instructions on how to conduct an anti-fly campaign, and has sent out a special bulletin entitled "Kill Flies and Save Lives." It is surely a promising indication when so learned a body as the American Academy of Political and Social Science considers an article on the house-fly worthy of a place in its periodical.

PUBLICITY FOR ALL PUBLIC BUSINESS
From the Chicago Record-Herald.
A marching idea is that of full and honest publicity for all public business. Differences between the house and the senate over a tariff bill were at the recent session of congress, thrashed out in the open, at a meeting attended by citizens and reporters. The suggestion was Senator La Follette's, and it was endorsed even by regular Republican organs.
In truth, open conferences are a corollary of the more general idea of scientific businesslike tariff revision. If we are to do away with log-rolling and dickering in tariff making we must be consistent and uphold public meetings of conference committees appointed to adjust minor or final differences.

From a Democratic source comes the proposal of publicity for the party caucus. Government by caucus has its evils, but publicity would tend to remove them. To be efficient parties must have leadership and discipline, and the honest caucus is necessary or even desirable. But one condition of honesty is "pitiless publicity." Tyranny, like secrecy and darkness, men do not readily or bravely yield to the party boss in the presence of candid spectators.
By all means, let us abolish secrecy as far as possible in the transaction of public business. And let us remember that parties are instruments, means, not ends; and that they become nothing but organized appetite when "run" by spoilsmen and tricksters.

I sat one day in my figtree's shade, and watched a man as he plied his spade. The man was old and his steps were weak, and deep were the furrows upon his cheek. I grieved for him as he heaved and wrought, for his task was hard and the WORTH day was hot, and the palfrey wage that WHILE the diggers get won't buy them napkins to dry their sweat. "Old man," I said, with a friendly smile, "do you really think that your life's worth while?" With red bandana he mopped his head, and leaned his weight on his spade and said: "I am, the happiest man in town! Last night I married the Widow Brown!" Then the bridegroom turned to his sowing, ditch, and his heart was glad and his life was rich. It often happens, methinks, that those who draw our sympathy for their woes, get more from life than we paupered guys who feed on lobsters and shrimps and pies.

Copyright, 1911, by George Matthew Adams. Coax Mason

"Aren't you too hard on your own sex, Miss Cameron?"
So one of my reader friends questions me. I wonder.
It is a new point of view on myself, to me. But really I don't think I am.
To be sure I may point out feminine follies more frequently and forcibly than I do the masculine, but that's only as a man could tell you the weak points and inconveniences of the house in which he lives better than those of a neighbor's house.

I assure you, I do not find more fault with my sex, because I think they have more faults.
Not by any means.
Please, attend, Mrs. Critic, while I try to vindicate myself from your criticism.
I know five obstinate men to one obstinate woman.
I know ten overweeningly conceited men to one extremely collected woman.
The very pretty, unusually attractive girl may think that every man is ready to fall in love with her, and not be so very far out of the way, either.

But almost every man, however homely, however stupid, however unattractive, fancies himself an all powerful lady-killer.
As Ellnor Glynn put it, "It does not matter what the size of a man is, his vanity is just the same. A shrimp of five foot is unable to understand why a lovely goddess does not drop like a ripe peach into his mouth."
I know five egotistical men to one egotistical woman.
I know five families where the pathway of some lord of creation must be paved into smoothness by the inconveniences and comfort sacrifices of the feminine members of the family, to one where the case is reversed.

The contrast between men's fidelity and women's fidelity is too much a truism to need mention.
On the other hand, it seems to me that women are seldom as broad-minded as men, almost never as altruistic, as interested in the good of humanity in general.
They are naturally more petty and inclined to cast the first stone, and they seldom have much sense of business honor.
Women, I think, are more jealous after marriage than men.
Women are more patient in small things, more lenient.
Men are more just; women more merciful.
There, perhaps I am still under indictment, but I hope not for I have truly tried to borrow a masculine virtue and be neither hard on my own sex nor the other, but simply "just" to both.

Chauncey Tells of the Higher Cost of Living

By FRANCES L. GARSDIE.
Chauncey Devere Appleton, having made the discovery that a statistician is a Wise Person who juggles so rapidly with figures no one has time to follow him and discover he is incorrect, has pushed his hair back from his brow, to give it more room to bulge, and some into the highly paid and coveted occupation of accumulating statistics.
In the past month he has figures that it all the Don'ts mothers use in a week were made into a charm string they would make a belt for Mother Earth with enough left-for roses and garters.

The threats made by mothers and never carried into execution would make a mountain range. The gap shoes worn by wives, he finds, being an intangible quantity are beyond enumeration.
Report a Vindication.
Having devoted so much time to mothers, he has turned his active brain to the spin, and is pleased to give figures showing why Mr. Dever, Dayzee Mayne Appleton, and other women of her age and condition, are Spins.
The report is invaluable because it is a vindication of the charms of the daughter left on father's hands.
The cost of the fuel to heat the parlor, and the gas to light it, is twice what it was a generation ago; there is a finer carpet at a higher price than the one on the floor of the room with father courier; mother, the furnishings to the parlor are 30 per cent more costly, and the dress daughter wears costs nine and one-half times what a dress for a similar occasion formerly cost.
Then there is the extra cost of hair, which must be considered, an amount of which sufficient to enthrall a young man would stagger any father of limited means.

Terrible Figures.
In brief, he figures, to put a young girl on the fishing bank, with special scenery and bait to allure, and with a smile on her lips from which all thought of expense must be banished, will cost 334 per cent more than it cost a generation ago.
These figures prove that the thing of a husband has gone away up in price. "Not only," concludes the Child Statistician, "has the price of bait gone up 254 per cent, but the banks are lined with 342 per cent more girls who are fishing; there are fewer fish in the stream, and these few fish are 3.639 per cent more wary than were the fish of some years ago."

POKE AND MISPLACED
From the San Francisco Chronicle.
The sensational nature of the hog market a year or more ago was the unprecedented high prices for hogs. On March 28, 1910, the selling rate for live hogs was $10.95 a hundred, the highest it had been in a generation, and in real money probably the highest it had ever been. Probably one reason was the ravages of hog cholera in years immediately preceding. In Kansas, the great producing state for these animals, the estimated loss from the disease in 1909 was $1,000,000, and no doubt that discouraged growers to an extent that reduced the supply appreciably. At the beginning of the following year, however, the agricultural department announced the development of a serum which was not only a sovereign remedy for the disease, but a prophylactic against its attack, and properly applied, would render the animal immune for life, which in the history of a hog is not supposed to be a very extended period. Not much has been said about it since, but inasmuch as the market has apparently enjoyed uninterrupted prosperity for the last eighteen months, a decided check from some source has apparently been given to the malady. There was unusual activity last week in the great hog markets, of which Kansas City is one of the foremost. On a single day over 42,000 hogs were received there, which exceeded by nearly 2,000 the next largest previous receipt recorded, which was in January, 1908. The reason given by the commission men is that the wheat harvest is earlier than usual and the farmers are anxious to sell their marketable live stock in order to take care of it. The great supply might have been supposed to have a depressing effect upon the market, but prices fell off not more than 5 or 10 cents on a hundred, though at closing out sales at the end of the day some dropped 15 cents. The sales were from $8 to $6.10, quite a slump from 1910 prices, but not below a point that leaves the industry one of very fair profit to those engaged in it. The high figures of a year ago naturally drew many into the business or led them to increase that in which they were already engaged. The receipts at the western markets in 1910 were 5,000,000 less than in 1909 and 8,000,000 less than in 1908. For the little more than five months of this year they have been 2,250,000 more than for the same time last year, at which rate they ought to reach the high total of three years ago. The lessened price of this great staple, while still on a paying basis, is a whole-some condition. It favorably affects the "cost of living" problem.

NO. 3 THE COLOSSEUM AT ROME
Second only to the Acropolis at Athens in interest to the antiquarian and historian in his study of ruins of Rome, is the Colosseum at Rome. This historic edifice was erected during the reign of Vespasian and Titus and in honor of the latter. It is said that 60,000 Jews were engaged in its erection for 10 years.
It was a feudal fortress for a long time, and finally a quarry from which were built churches and palaces until by its consecration as holy ground on account of the number of martyrs supposed to have been immolated here, further ravages were stopped.
It is said to have given seats to 5,000 spectators, and was inaugurated A. D. 80, the same year in which Titus died, on which occasion 5,000 wild animals and 10,000 captives were slain. The inauguration lasted 100 days. An ecclesiastical tradition makes the architect to have been a Christian, one Gaudentius, afterwards a martyr.
The Colosseum was originally called the Amphitheatrum Flavium, but since the time of Bebe, it has been known as the Colosseum, probably given it because of its enormous size.
The Roman Colosseum became the spot where prince and people met together to witness those sanguinary exhibitions, the degrading effects of which on the Roman character can hardly be overestimated. The circumference of the building is 1,641 feet, the height of the outer wall is 157 feet, the length of the arena, 278 feet, and its width, 177 feet. It covers an area of six acres.
It is only by ascending to the upper terrace, that the enormous size of the Colosseum is fully seen, and by moonlight the effect of size and massiveness is much increased. The ruins south of the Colosseum are supposed to have been the Vivarium, in which were kept the wild beasts for the combats.
As a general description of the building, the following passage of Gibbon is said to be perfect: "The outside of the Colosseum is a vast amphitheater, the high figures of a year ago naturally drew many into the business or led them to increase that in which they were already engaged. The receipts at the western markets in 1910 were 5,000,000 less than in 1909 and 8,000,000 less than in 1908. For the little more than five months of this year they have been 2,250,000 more than for the same time last year, at which rate they ought to reach the high total of three years ago. The lessened price of this great staple, while still on a paying basis, is a whole-some condition. It favorably affects the "cost of living" problem.

Among the attractive loving cups we have suitable for prizes are some of Venetian Bronze. These cups make very handsome trophies, indeed, while priced at a slightly lower figure than our silver cups. We have a very attractive display of silver cups in many sizes.

Blonde or Brunette?
Richard Le Gallienne in Munsey's Magazine.
From the beginning mankind seems to have had a marked preference for blonde things, a sense of security in their presence, a feeling that their blondeness stood for a central beneficence and innocence in their nature; whereas darkness of hue, has been similarly suspected as standing for hidden and possibly evil qualities and powers. It is not, I think, too fantastic to see in this man's primitive fear of the dark and to trace the universal preference for blonde wigs in artificial periods to his ancient worship of the sun.
The deities to which, in the terrifying mystery of his childhood, he has turned for protection have usually been blonde, as have most of those gracious personifications which embodied his notions of unseen beneficent influences. Apollo in the south and Balder in the north were both golden-haired gods; so was Dionysos, "the spirit of the wine and dew and leaping in a thousand vines." Angels and saviors of the world have usually been imagined as blonde. Man's most appealing symbol of divine love, the Madonna, from Raphael to Rossetti, comes to us in a halo of her own golden hair. Athens is always "the graven" Athena. Flora, Pomona and the Graces are all blondes.

IN THE EARLY DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY
September 6, 1881.
The Gazette contained a long article describing the newly discovered coalfields in Gunnison county near Crested Butte.
TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY
September 6, 1891.
The Republican state committee decided to hold the state convention on September 29, at Glenwood Springs.
The Deaf and Blind institute opened for the season. A kindergarten course was started for the first time.
Two electric cars on the Broadmoor line collided just north of the bridge across the Fountain on Nevada avenue. Mrs. W. A. Ogden's head was cut with broken glass but no one was seriously injured. At that time the Broadmoor cars ran out Nevada and climbed the hill near the intersection of that street with Cheyenne road.
Considerable snow fell on the Peak.

Seven Notable Ruins
History has always attached much importance to the Number Seven. The Gazette has taken this charmed number, and has woven into stories on a variety of subjects a Series of Sevens, beginning each Monday and continuing during the week.

NO. 3 THE COLOSSEUM AT ROME
The edifice was constructed with marble, and decorated with statues. The slopes of the vast concave which formed the inside were filled and surrounded with 50 or 60 rows of seats, of marble likewise, covered with cushions and capable of receiving with ease about 80,000 spectators. Sixty-four vomitories (by that name the doors were very aptly distinguished) poured forth the immense multitude, and the entrances, passages and staircases were contrived with such exquisite skill that on each person, whether of the senatorial, the equestrian or the plebeian order, arrived at his destined place without trouble or confusion. Nothing was omitted which, in any respect, could be subservient to the convenience and pleasure of the spectators. They were protected from the sun and rain by an ample canopy, occasionally drawn over their heads. The air was continually refreshed by the playing of fountains and profusely impregnated by the grateful scent of aromatics.
In the center of the edifice the arena, or stage, was strewn with the finest sand and successively assumed the most different forms. At one moment it seemed to rise out of the earth like the garden of the Hesperides, and was afterwards broken into the rocks and caverns of Thrace. The subterranean pipes conveyed an inexhaustible supply of water, and what had just before appeared a level plain might be suddenly converted into a wide lake, covered with armed vessels, and replenished with the monsters of the deep.
In the decoration of these scenes the Roman emperors displayed their wealth and liberality, and we read on various occasions that the whole furniture of the amphitheater consisted either of silver or of gold or of amber.
The poet who describes the games of Carinus, in the character of a shepherd, attracted to the Capitol by the fame of their magnificence, affirms that the nets designed as a defense against the wild beasts were gilded, and that the "belt" or circle which divided the several ranks of spectators from each other was studded with a precious mosaic of beautiful stones.
In ancient times, there was hardly a town in the Roman empire which had not an amphitheater large enough to contain vast multitudes of spectators, and as specimens of architecture the amphitheaters were more remarkable for the mechanical skill and admirable adaptation to their purpose displayed in them, than for any beauty of shape or decoration.

TOMORROW—THE RUINS OF POMPEII.
From the beginning mankind seems to have had a marked preference for blonde things, a sense of security in their presence, a feeling that their blondeness stood for a central beneficence and innocence in their nature; whereas darkness of hue, has been similarly suspected as standing for hidden and possibly evil qualities and powers. Grooms, 64 and 62;
Brides, 56 and 46

Two applicants for marriage licenses each with past life's sixtieth milestone had their requests granted at the county clerk's office yesterday.

John H. Cornwell, aged 64, and a prosperous resident of Wood River, Neb., received a license to wed Mrs. Nettie D. Conant, aged 56, who has been a resident of Colorado Springs for many years.

Running a close second to Cornwell and his prospective bride in the matter of years, was Levi B. Main, 62, and Minnie V. Alsop, 46, both of Colorado Springs. They were married by Justice Dunnington shortly after taking out a license. Justice Dunnington also performed the wedding ceremony for Alfred J. Booth, 32, of Minneapolis, and Miss Sadie Stovell, 21, of Hutchinson, Kan.

Other marriage licenses issued yesterday were: Harry G. Gervais, 21, Colorado City, and Mae E. Hall, 24, Colorado Springs; Woodson Jones, 44, Plattsburg, Mo., and Margaret White, 44, St. Joseph, Mo.; Wesley Gunn, 26, and Pauline Dalton, 23, both of St. Louis.

START WORK TODAY

Plans for the new United Brethren church, which will be located on the southwest corner of Nevada and Vermont, were filed yesterday with the city engineer, and excavation work will be started at the church lot today. The church building committee and the pastor have made arrangements for the disposition of the dirt, and nothing stands in the way of rapid progress toward completion. The building will be of white brick.

WANT TO LEASE LAND

It is stated in a news dispatch, received yesterday from Rochester, N. Y., that the International Typographical union has approached the National Letter Carriers association in regard to the purchase or lease of a tract of land in this city, adjoining the Union Printers Home. Thomas McCaffery of Colorado Springs, vice president of the board of trustees of the Union Printers Home, affirms the report and says that the tract of land is needed for grazing purposes. It is believed that the Letter Carriers association has given up its idea of building a national home at this place, at least for the present.

A. conference at Williams Bay, Lake Geneva, Wis., and comes directly from that place to Colorado Springs.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

There is nothing that can leak like a pocketbook.

A woman money means indulgence of her children.

A more wife a girl goes on the more she expects to have lots of romances with princes.

Some men are to mean they can worry about how much their funeral will cost them some day.

The later a man gets home at night the earlier he'd better have his excuses ready the next morning.

To Show Trainload of Colonists Advantages of Colorado Springs

At 11 o'clock this morning a carload of home-seekers is expected to arrive in Colorado Springs in order to inspect the large tract of land four miles southeast of the city, which the Payne Investment company is putting on the market. The visitors tomorrow will be the first of several trains which are being made up by men from Nebraska and Kansas. It is the plan of the investment company to entertain the colonists at the Alamo hotel for dinner, after which the entire company will be given a trip over Colorado Springs and through the Garden of the Gods so they may see the value of Colorado Springs as a market for farm produce and as a decidedly enjoyable city in which to live.

Today will be spent entirely in entertainment, and tomorrow the investment company will escort the visitors to the tract so that they may see its advantages. It has been announced by E. B. Wallace of the investment company that no land will be sold to investors, this idea being that homesteads should be established and that section of the county be permanently settled. The tract embraces 10,000 acres.

No Winter Dances at Pavilion for Present

After a thorough investigation of the cost and probable return of continuing the weekly dances at Stratton park this winter, the directors of the street railway company have decided that the expense would be too great to start such an undertaking this year.

"This matter has been under consideration for the last three years," said E. M. Labron, superintendent of the company, yesterday. "When we first conceived the idea, I asked contractors to estimate the cost of installing a heating system, and upon getting their figures, we decided that it was not advisable to go to such an expense at that time."

"But the heating system is not the thing that is holding us back. The conditions at the pavilion are such that a building would have to be erected to house the boilers, and when we do construct such a building we want to use the basement for the boilers and the rest of it for a rest room or other room in connection with the dancing pavilion. Of course, this would require the expenditure of a large sum, and we think that we could use that amount to a greater advantage on the road."

"Next year we may feel able to make these improvements, but at present we cannot say definitely as to that."

Stratton Pavilion Dance

Director Fred G. Fink has arranged another attractive program of popular music for the regular dance at Stratton park pavilion tonight, as follows:

ZOO PARK CLOSING SUNDAY BUT BASEBALL CONTINUES

Zoo park, owned by Alderman John Coughlin of Chicago, will be closed for the season next Sunday night. During the months that it will be closed to visitors many improvements will be made.

While the Zoo proper will close September 10, the Zoo ball team will continue to engage in the national pastime at the same old stand for several weeks yet, and a number of games that should prove interesting have been booked for the remainder of the baseball season.

On Labor day the cold water bathing pool was thrown open to the public, and scores patronized it, as well as the warm water plunge. Owing to a shortage of water the bathing pools were not in operation until late this year, but next season with a different arrangement for water, the pools will afford probably the most attractive bathing resort to be found in the state outside of Glenwood Springs.

MUST WEAR UNIFORM

Colorado Springs cops. from captain down to the newest recruit on the force, must appear in uniform when on duty, according to an order just issued by Commissioner Himebaugh, who is acting chief.

Himebaugh declares that he wants the police department to appear to the best advantage, and as a starter in the matter of proposed improvements has issued the regulation uniform order. He says he wants all police officials in blue and brass buttons so that "the people can recognize a policeman from a visitor or a prisoner."

Commissioner Himebaugh made special reference to Captain Stark in his general order, and addressed a letter to him saying that he expected the captain to appear in uniform at all times when on duty.

In another order issued yesterday, Himebaugh assigned H. T. Finnoch of the detective force, to duty as police clerk and detective combined, at a salary of $100 per month. It is thought probable that this latter order will result in an argument between the mayor and Himebaugh at today's meeting of the council. The letter to Captain Stark follows:

Letter to Stark.
City Hall, September 5, 1911.
Captain Howard Stark.
Dear Sir:—You are hereby instructed that, on and after September 7, you will please report for your nightly duties at 6 o'clock p. m. and take charge and act as sergeant on duty until 7 p. m. when the night-sergeant will go on duty, thus relieving the day-sergeant at 6 p. m. instead of 7 p. m. as heretofore. It is desirable, for the better appearance of the department, that you appear in full regulation uniform at all times, while on duty as police headquarter. It looks more official to prisoners or those inquiring.

In making a study for the betterment of the police department, I am convinced that we must begin to establish some system and better working order. Otherwise this above mentioned, your duties and time for going off duty, will be the same as heretofore understood. Yours truly,
(Signed) A. A. HIMEBAUGH,
Commissioner of Public Safety.

BANK REPORTS INDICATE MOST PROSPEROUS TIMES

Business activity and stability in Colorado Springs were largely increased during the summer months, according to reports issued by the six banks of Colorado Springs yesterday. After Trying to Kill Wife, Former Springs Man Commits Suicide Angered at his wife's request that he wipe dishes for her, Harry H. Rouse, of Los Angeles, formerly of this city, fired a shot from his revolver at his wife, missing her, the young man turned the revolver upon himself and fired a bullet through his heart. Death was immediate.

The young couple had been married but a short time, and so far as outsiders knew were very congenial. Their son, Jack, 1 year old, was playing with his toys in the room in which the shooting occurred. The Los Angeles police, according to a press dispatch, think that Rouse had been drinking and was under the influence of liquor when the tragedy happened.

Rouse was the son of the late Herbert W. Rouse, who, until his death last year, was for many years janitor of the Garfield school and a special police officer. Harry Rouse left Colorado Springs 10 years ago and went to Texas, where he was successful in oil ventures. While in Texas he was married and then moved to Los Angeles, where he was employed as bookkeeper for the Los Angeles Abstract and Trust company. By diligent work Rouse was elevated to the position of assistant secretary of the company and was considered one of their best employees. Investigation after his suicide showed that his accounts with the company were correct in all respects.

Rouse's mother, Mrs. Nellie A. Rouse, has been living in Colorado Springs at 316 East Williamette with the family of W. P. Tilton.

JUDGE LINDSEY CALLS BOY SCOUTS HIS IDEAL

Ben R. Lindsey, judge of the juvenile court of Denver, Colo., who has become famous the country over because of his enthusiastic work in behalf of boys, seen great possibilities for good in the Boy Scout movement. He is closely in touch with the Boy Scout activities in Denver and is advising the scout masters there as to the methods of handling the boys. He has observed the appeal that the activities have for the boys and has perceived how, through the spirit of fun and play, the characters of the boys can be molded. He likes the Boy Scout organization because it does not preach to the boy. It unobtrusively appeals to the boy's sense of honor.

For these reasons, Lindsey, who is a member of the National Council of the Boy Scout of America, is convinced that still greater things can be accomplished through the organization. "I am enthusiastic," he writes, "about the Boy Scout movement. It is doing tremendous good all over the country, and is just the thing that we have needed, and bids fair to fulfill a dream I have had for a long time, namely, a practical scheme through which we can impart ethics and rules of moral conduct that differ from our methods of preaching that have never taken and never will take with boys. I only wish I had the time to write an article upon what I mean, and how the Boy Scouts are taking care of the idea, that I hope can do even more than they are doing in that direction."

What the Press Agents Say

FRED DOTY ON ACTING

It is most interesting to hear various players' ideas on acting and studying. Through the methods and thoughts are usually similar, each individual person has some notion especially his own. Fred Doty, the excellent character player of the Lorch Stock company, which will present "The Red Circle," a drama of politics, at the Opera house this afternoon and night and tomorrow night, says:

"When I am handed a role to act, I read it over. As the part comes to an actor, there is not much sense to it for only the cues and speeches are written in it. At the first rehearsal, having become slightly familiar with the words of my role, I rather piece by piece, not only my own character but the play itself, I never have to sit down and study lines. They come to me naturally, with the rehearsal. I suppose the natural sequence of events, the realization of my part and what it has to do with the action of the play in question accounts for that."

"A character man, as I am known in the profession, has the broadest, and yet, perhaps the narrowest, line of parts possible. It is broad because his work ranges from anything to everything that is the least bit out of and away from the 'straight' or general work. It is narrow because we have to play so many of the same sort of characters. Every drama has its characters which are true to an almost inviolable rule, the old men, foreigners, etc. And yet, for the conscientious character man, this work is intensely interesting for there is always something to be done, a new, fresh touch here, a side-light there, a gesture in that place, a different line, to the make-up, etc. Mixing with people, studying them in their natural haunts, one learns so many things which can be applied to stage characters and make them stand out, vital, true, and his."

POPULAR MUSICAL ACT AT MAJESTIC

The Sullivan and Conidine circuit has long been noted for the high quality of its musical attractions, and Majestic patrons will remember the appearance here of such high-class artists as the Zingaris, David Scholten, Vilmos Westony, Mabel McKinley and others in the solo, solo and more recently the Olivetti Troubadours who were sensationally popular when here only a few days ago. The very best musical artists in the country, vocal and instrumental, are being constantly secured by this circuit and as a consequence Manager Tammen of the Majestic is able to offer in this preeminent musical city the same class of music that is to be heard in the largest cities.

The musical feature of this week's bill, the act of the Premier Trio, is another example of the high quality of the S. & C. musical bookings. The trio consists of Miss Anderson and Messrs. McNeil and Saucedo, the first a violinist and the other two banjo and guitar experts. All three have complete mastery of their instruments and added to this they have chosen a repertoire that is full of variety and appeals to every taste. They are equally at home with classics and rag-time and their variation of "The Gipsy Bear" catches the public fancy in a most effective way. Miss Anderson adds much to the popularity of the act by her captivating personality. She wears a mischievous smile that won't come off and does a little Grizzly Bear imitation while playing, which makes a hit. The act is one of the most popular features of a bill that is strong and entertaining from start to finish. "Hogan in Society" the head-line sketch, is a comedy. Sandberg and

HEALTHY MOTHERS

Women who bear children and remain healthy are those who prepare their systems in advance of baby's coming. Unless the mother aids nature in its pre-natal work the crisis finds her system unequal to the demands made upon it, and she is often left with weakened health or chronic ailments. No remedy is so truly a help to nature as Mother's Friend, and no expectant mother should fail to use it. It relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the ligaments, makes pliant and elastic those fibres and muscles which nature is expanding, prevents numbness of limbs, and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. The system being thus prepared by Mother's Friend dispels the fear that the crisis may not be safely met. Mother's Friend assures a speedy and complete recovery for the mother, and she is left a healthy woman to enjoy the rearing of her child. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

NEW YORK MARKET

Beginning the day with a severe shaking up, with prices depressed by the uncertainty of European conditions, the stock market made up the losses and advanced further. Before the close one of the most comprehensive upward movements of several weeks occurred. In spite of the fact that the demand was limited and that trading throughout was on a comparatively small scale, Canadian Pacific, which lost 4 points in London, dropped 3 1/2 here, and London and Berlin selling, and Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Pacific, Reading, and Union Pacific were supplied from the same source. The lower prices established by this movement prompted short covering, and the list soon rallied. The fact that American tobacco securities were unusually strong through the day, the preferred stock moving up about 3 points and the bonds about 1 point, was a strengthening influence in the general market. Advances from general tobacco securities were not unusual in the past few days, but the unusualness in regard to the labor situation on western railroads was not diminished. The influence of this fact on the stock market undoubtedly will explain in part the crisis just past. Much interest attaches to the forthcoming report of the United States Steel corporation, as of August 31. It is expected that the statement will show a considerable increase over the previous months, estimates placing the amount at 100,000 to 125,000 tons. Officials of the corporation were quoted today as stating that they did not look for a falling off in business during the current month.

Bonds were firm. Total sales, par value, $2,750,000. United States 5s advanced 1/4 on call.

CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Profit taking on a large scale by owners of wheat more than wiped out today an advance due to light world shipment and unfavorable crop conditions in Europe. The close was 5/16c under Saturday night's figure. Corn finished 3/4c down, oats of a decline 1/2c, and hog products falling from the same as the previous close to 1/16c below. Cushing of wheat by both holders and short sellers was based largely on the idea that a rise in the prices here in the face of a decline at Berlin, formed a tempting chance to sell. An advance at Liverpool and other European centers was largely ignored, this merely reflecting previous gains on this side of the Atlantic. In connection with the wheat trade in Berlin there were assertions that wheat offerings in Russia had been held back artificially and the farmers of that country had an export surplus of about 125,000,000 bushels. Reports of large quantities of ocean freight room at the American seaboard gave a steady turn at the end of the session although latest trades were at nearly the low price of the day. December ranged from 95 1/2 to 97 1/2c and when the pit was cleared stood at 95 1/2c, a net loss of 3/16c. Corn weakened because of the rains and on account of the Missouri reports showing an improvement of 10 per cent. during August. December fluctuated between 83 1/2 and 84 1/2c, with final sales 5/16c down, but the tone was steady at 83 1/2c. Cash grades were unsettled. No. 2 yellow was quoted at 83 1/2c.

A better outlook for fall seeding had much to do with depressing oats. High and low levels, touched by the December option was 47 and 47 1/2c. The close 47 1/2c, showed a net decline of 3/16c.

In prospect the tone of demand was disappointed by the weakness of the grain list. The outcome left pork 10c off to the up, lard unchanged to 10c down and ribs at 24 1/2c to 1 1/2c decline.

Quotations Furnished by Otis & Hough.
